DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

2. Claims 1-15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as containing subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. The incorporation of the foreign priority document, Japanese patent applications No. 2000-017863 filed January 24, 2000, and No. 2000-081782, filed March 17, 2000, in the specification disclosure fails to satisfy the disclosure requirements of 35 USC 112, first paragraph since it was not publicly accessible as of the filing date.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

- 3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:
 - (a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.
- 4. Claims 1-15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Toya et al (Toya) in view of Murray and Suzuki.

Toya in column 17 lines 43-63 discloses a heat-developable photographic light-sensitive layer contains at least one light-sensitive layer on a support. The light-sensitive layer may be in a multiplayer form. In order to control the gradation, the light-sensitive layer may have high sensitivity layer/low sensitivity layer structure or low sensitivity layer/high sensitivity layer structure. The heat-developable light-sensitive material comprises reducible silver source, silver halide, reducing agent and binder. Thus, the material taught in Toya is substantially similar to that of the present claimed invention. The electron-transfer is taught in Murray in columns 9-10, compound IS-01 to IS-04; Suzuki in column 36, compounds (3) to (5).

The heat-developable imaging-recording material comprises two layer: a silver-supplying layer containing an organic silver salt, a reducing agent, an organic binder and "substantially no photosensitive silver halide", and a separate layer containing a photosensitive silver halide. The term "substantially no silver halide" in the silver-supplying layer does not exclude any silver halide from the a silver-supplying layer and use of the language "containing" in the claimed language "a separate layer containing a photosensitive silver halide" does not exclude organic silver salt and other ingredient from that layer. Thus, imaging layers presented in the claimed invention has structure similar to that of multiplayer form taught in Toya in column 17, lines 55-60. Thus, it would have been obvious to the worker of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to use a known electron-transfer taught in Murray or Suzuki to enhance the image contrast of a heat-developable material has mutilayer form taught in Toya to provide an invention and process as claimed.
